

MHS Gals 'Baked'

In came the powerful Buhler Crusaders wearing their warm-ups that read "Baker's Dozen" on them and did what everybody thought they would as senior Robin Baker led the Crusaders, scoring 30 points, to a 82-24 pounding over the Mulvane Wildcats Tuesday, Jan. 5, in Mulvane.

"Buhler is a great team," said Wildcats Coach Gregg Wolgast. "They're ranked like No. 1 in 5A and are one of the top teams in the state. They're going to beat a lot of teams like they did us."

"Our shooting wasn't that good and against a team like Buhler, well, the score shows it. In the first quarter, we knew they would come out and press us early. At first we broke their press but didn't execute well after we did and didn't shoot the ball. That enabled them to build up a bid lead and they never looked back."

Buhler jumped out to an early 25-6 first quarter lead and then to a 47-12 half-time score and the rest was history.

"We worked on some things over Christmas break," said Wolgast, "that we did well in the game, like the press. We also worked on our defensive trapping and we looked pretty good doing that. Also, I thought we hit the boards well but just weren't shooting the baskets. We missed some easy baskets or we could have made the game a little closer."

Leading the way for the Wildcats was sophomore guard Amy Arnold pouring in 10 points, followed by seniors Kathy Saxton with eight points and Kim Prickett added four points. Junior Nancy Farber scored two points.

"There were a few who played well," said Wolgast. "I thought that Prickett played well and set up the offense. I thought (Bridget) Horton did a good job on the boards but just had a rough shooting night. Also, Farber had a good game and played good defense. Kathy Saxton didn't have her best game but she has been playing on an injured leg and that can have a psychological effect on a player."

While the Crusaders kept their record clean, Mulvane tumbled to 2-5 and 0-3 in the Chisholm Trail League race. It was the third consecutive setback for the first-year coach and his crew.

The junior varsity probably played their best game of the season but lost 49-16. Sophomore Nicole Infinger led the Wildcat jayvees by scoring 10 points. Angie Wheeler was next in scoring four points followed by Bridget Horton adding two points.

The next game for Mulvane will be this Friday, Jan. 8, as MHS will travel to Wellington to play the Crusaders at 6:15 p.m. The Cats beat Wellington early in the season in a 50-49 thriller in the Maize Tournament.
